

FACTS ABOUT CHICHEN ITZA

Chichen Itza also means 'at the mouth of the well of the Itza'.

In about 600 AD, Chichen Itza had started to gain importance in the region. Between 900 and 1050 AD, Chichen Itza had become a powerful capital.

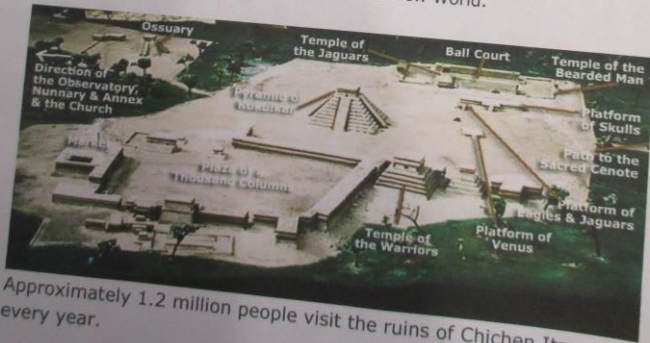

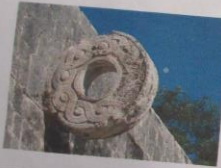

It was one of the largest Maya cities and also had the most diverse population in any Maya population. It covered five square kilometers.

Many of the Maya people that lived in Chichen Itza were very skilled craftsmen, including sculptors, weavers, jewelers and potters.

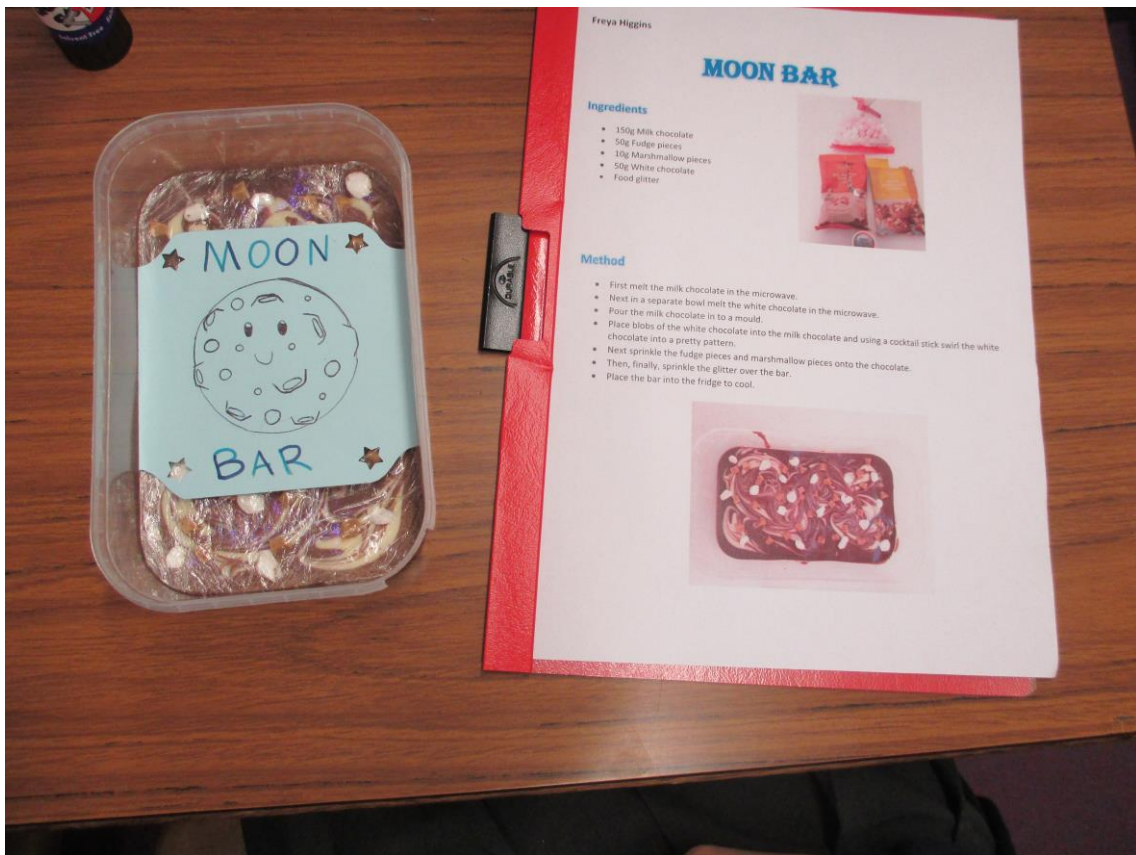

There is archaeological evidence to support the theory that civil war broke out in about 1221, and the power of Yucatan shifted to Mayapan, leaving Chichen Itza behind.

Chichen Itza is considered to be one of the Seven Wonders of the New World.

Approximately 1.2 million people visit the ruins of Chichen Itza every year.
